

KOSOVO

COMPROMISE 2007

Your daily-updated analyses, charts and solution plug-ins for the Kosovo crisis.

November 10, 2008

Serb vehicles attacked with stones, no injuries

KosovoCompromise Staff

Two Serb vehicles were attacked by stones in the Albanian part of the village of Suvi Do, near Kosovska Mitrovica, but there were no injuries.

A first attack occurred on Sunday evening, when unknown assailants attacked the vehicle of Bratislav Kragovic, who was in the car along with his wife and two children.

The vehicle of Bogdan Denovic was attacked soon after.

Some 40 Serb families live in the ethnically-mixed village of Suvi Do.

The Vice-president of the Association of Serb communities of Kosovo Marko Jaksic said the incidents showed yet another pressure on the local Serb to leave the village.