

KOSOVO

COMPROMISE 2007

Your daily-updated analyses, charts and solution plug-ins for the Kosovo crisis.

January 6, 2009

Kosovo Serbs collect yule logs for Christmas, no incidents

KosovoCompromise Staff

Kosovo Serbs have been cutting badnjak - dry branches from yule logs, found in surrounding forests from the early morning hours on Tuesday, and automobiles decorated with these branches are sounding their horns in Kosovska Mitrovica to announce Christmas according to the Julian calendar as it is celebrated among Serb Orthodox Christians.

A stepped up presence of KFOR troops, members of the Kosovo Police Service (KPS), but also EULEX Police patrols deployed at several points in the town, was noted in Kosovska Mitrovica.

The central Christmas celebrations in Kosovo are held at the Monastery of Gracanica, in central Kosovo.